

Illesley States Coal Prices To Increase

OTTAWA, Nov. 26.—(CP)—Finance Minister Illesley announced over the weekend that the recent settlement of the strike in Alberta and British Columbia will result in an increase in the price of coal to all users of coal produced in the area.

The amount of the increase necessary to enable miners to meet living expenses and provide holidays with pay to miners will be determined by the Price Board. Mr. Illesley said the government, conscious of the miners' careful consideration and had rejected the alternative method of a subsidy.

ASSISTANCE NEEDED

He said the effect of the decision of a royal commission in the wage dispute was to increase wages from $6.28 per day in some fields and $6.40 in others to $12.50 and $14.40, and set rates correspondingly. The commission had also found the companies could not continue to provide miners and meet costs without assistance.

"In this case, as the public knows, there was a strike at the beginning of the war, and for a substantial wage increase," said Mr. Illesley.

The commission had a difficult task to perform. The commission, in making its decision concerning a substantial part but not the whole wage increase, recommended to the operators, in deciding not to appeal the decision, apparently felt that the only alternative to a strike was a prolonged strike, during which, though the miners' wives and Canadian families would have to endure hardship and suffering.

"In the circumstances, the government has decided that the alternative is to allow a price increase, since it is obvious that to meet situations of this kind by the government's subsidies will put premium on strikes at the cost of the already heavily burdened taxpayer."

"It is a matter of the keenest regret to me that this wage dispute will lead to an increase in the cost of living, and I would not be candid with the Canadian people if I did not say that we cannot afford to have a wage increase if price increases brought about in this way spread."

"In my opinion, labor has more to gain from our price stabilization program is wrecked than any other group in the community."

"I appeal to labor leaders and to the public to exercise the greatest restraint at this time and to co-operate with us in our uphill battle to prevent the spread of the depressive forces against the obvious evils of a runaway rise in prices."

Cruiser Explodes After Bomb Hit

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Nov. 23.—(AP)—A 1,000-pound bomb from a patrol plane exploded on the deck of a Japanese light cruiser and exploded in a spectacular manner, sinking the ship in the 40th enemy raid on Port Moresby, the northern Solomons during November.

The cruiser, on night reconnaissance Friday, sighted the cruiser near St. George Channel between New Britain and New Ireland Islands.

Allied headquarters did not claim the cruiser's destruction, although a spokesman said there was a heavy explosion of light with the bomb explosion.

This action came as the Allied air forces struck heavily at the enemy's bases in the wild and rugged areas of the southeastern Pacific warfront.

Planes from the south Pacific headquarters, Adm. William F. Halsey and his battle-damaged force, began their 10th day since the offensive against Bougainville Islands began Nov. 1, making more than 200 sorties. A total of 400 tons of bombs were dropped without a loss. No enemy interception was reported.

Go-Signal for Final Assaults May be Near

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(CP)—Mounting evidence of information from abroad strengthens belief that the final assault that one of the major developments of the war can be expected momentously—in the military field—relatively close to Allied worldwide victory strategy.

The nature and full implications of such an important break could obviously relate directly to the flashing of a go-signal to the final assault, but the leading members of the United Nations fighting alliance have promised Germany and Japan

FULL PART FOR RUSSIA

The rumors were well founded that Russia had joined alongside Britain and the United States under the determined purpose and the determined accord of the Moscow conference.

Meanwhile reports from abroad gave a new turn to the recent well-known statement of the Allied supreme meeting of the Allied "big three" by suggesting a fourth big Allied power had been represented by the United Nations, which the Moscows conference.

This is based on the likelihood that any such talk would be such broad purpose that President Chiang Kai-shek might sit in with the "big three" in Moscow, President Roosevelt, and President Stalin.

One of the major signs of this change may be Edward Beesly, president of the provisional Czechoslovak government, who left London for Moscow—where his arrival was announced by the Foreign Office—of concluding a mutual assistance agreement with Russia.

There were some rumors Beesly would be present when and if the "big three" "big four"—meet in the last place of the war and the first moves of peace.

8th Army Told To Drive Nazis North of Rome

ALGIERS, Nov. 26.—(CP)—Gen. Bernard Montgomery called on his 8th Army today to "drive the Germans north of Rome" and to "drive the Germans out of Italy" as soon as possible.

With the widespread speculation over the Churchill-Roosevelt-Stalin meeting was a new and strong desire to end the war, British and American press feeler reports, including a News mission to Italy.

Montgomery's statement probably about one-third of Italy since we invaded the country on Sept. 3. But the Germans still hold the approaches to Rome and that they must be driven out.

What Change?

Certain church groups in the East are said to be disturbed over what is described as a "wide open Sunday" in the operation of the Lord's Day Act.

They declare that since no charges may be laid under this act without the consent of the attorneys-general of the provinces concerned, they see a "wide open Sunday" for Canada in the future.

Comparatively, Canadians would like to see a day of rest and recreation Sunday. Nor would they care to see a repressed and puritanical Sunday.

But it is difficult to understand how the new regulation is going to affect the situation one way or another, except to stop such extraordinary changes as were laid recently against a farmer for bringing in his produce on Sunday when the weather threatened to ruin it.

Indeed, what change does the new regulation actually effect?

What is known is that, in the West at least, attorneys-general have always been required to issue a fiat before the courts would entertain a charge under the Lord's Day Act.

What is different now?

Men for the Woods

The first contingent of 500 Japanese passed through Edmonton last week en route to lumber camps in northern parts of the province where they will be employed as separate units and housed by themselves. They are also said to be preparing to secure a large number of German internees for the same kind of work under similar living conditions.

They will, of course, have to be supervised by these men, to assure that they will not commit unlawful acts or desert the camps. The supervision will be left to the wood that their services are to be made use of. Lumber is scarce and woodsmen hard to find. The Japs worked last year in the forests in British Columbia and are reported to have proved satisfactory. It is to be supposed their conduct here will be equally good.

There are two reasons why it is good policy to use the manpower of internees in this way. Unless they are so employed there will be so much less lumber with which to build houses and for other purposes. And unless they are employed at self-supporting labor rates, they must be kept in idleness at the expense of the taxpayers. We don't owe them that favor.

V

Five Nights Running

Blissful Berlin: Five nights in a row should satisfy the quite natural desire in Britain that the enemy must "get back" what Goering's Luftwaffe did to London, with interest. And there is no hint that the raids will stop until Berlin is made as militarily useless as Hamburg. The comparative immunity with which the city long enjoyed is due, in part, to the fact that it has a sufficient number of long range bombers and in part because the Ruhleben industrial area was more immediately important. The machines are being now hand, and nearer centres dealt with, Berlin's turn has come. True, the people of Berlin are not vengeful, but they have long memories and believe in paying their debts.

Canadians will be gratified to know that the first Canadian-built Lancaster got into action in time to take part in Friday's raid on Berlin. It was the same pathfinders sent ahead to drop flares which should show the bombers their targets. The report indicates that they did a good job.

But Berlin is not the only Nazi centre to which the Allied airmen are directing their purposeful attention. On Friday also, a thousand United States bombers and fighters attacked Bremen and targets in northern France. The air raid is now on a 24 hour schedule.

Where Numbers Count

One advantage of their manpower superiority is that the Russians can always find the going hard at one point, can strike somewhere else. The Nazis have massed enough strength to stop retreating south of the Prupper marshes, and to even regain some ground in that area. Red forces shifted to the north, captured Gomel and started two spearhead columns driving into White Russia. With ample reserves, they were probably able to do this without weakening their lines elsewhere or losing time shifting troops over long distances.

This non-thrust parallels the old Napoleon's way of war, from Moscow to Warsaw and Berlin. It is less than 200 miles from the Latvian border and carries a potential threat that the Nazi left wing to Leningrad may be isolated and trapped. This is Hitler's general's ignorance. They will not be able to move, without exposing their flanks, that drive, whatever the risk in drawing troops from other sectors or throwing in strategic reserves which have been held ready to support any weak point.

Russia did not have the protection of an English Channel. It was correspondingly easy to invade. But when the invaders failed to smash the Russian army at the first onset, the inevitable happened. The war of movement became a war of position—with the biggest battalions on the Russian side of the line. The then turned into a "big push" like that on the Western Front in the first great war. The Russians won because it had the weight of numbers. And this advantage the Russian general staff is showing itself capable of exploiting to the full.

Having had to switch 40 or 50 divisions to the south when Italy was knocked out, the Russians had to drop back and forth along the eastern front, while the Russians force the fighting where and when they choose. V

Canadians are asked to save and save again paper, day before the Edmonton paper followed them in, by the announcement that more steel can now be spared for the making of civilian goods.

The contrast indicates the inevitable ups-and-downs which have to be looked for when the industrial organism is strained to the limit. The same can be said of raw materials. Scarcities vary necessarily, as between one commodity and another and one month and another. There is room to hope, however, that the peak has been passed and that the trend will be toward a more plentiful supply at least of things rated as necessities.

The closer the relationship of the emperor, the greater the fury of the attack.

I think in this circumstance is to be found the complete answer to the fear expressed by many people that the emperor would turn to a post-war wave of fascism or communism or some other doctrine of foreign origin.

These are the people, a powerful element of resistance towards all political phenomena that do not spring from our own way of life, and that is to say, from our own way of life, to isolate and obtrude this same strange and unnatural development.

It is to isolate and imprison the bacillus of tuberculosis that invade us.

This is our duty, and all persons of political thought, especially itself is diseased, it will not tolerate those political activities that are outside in our own native conceptions.

It would be as absurd for us to accept these doctrines as fascism and communism as it would have been to reject the outcast Mosley with open arms.

The tribal rule of outlawing the stranger and his outlandish work still runs in our society, even in its politeness.

Food Production

FROM THE ECONOMIC ANALYST

As the year progresses, it is becoming possible to appraise the degree of success Canadian farmers will attain in meeting the various production objectives established at the Dominion-Provincial Conference in 1943. The first of these objectives was placed on the production of live-stock and live-stock products, together with the feed grains necessary to produce the live stock required.

It is estimated that a 28 per cent increase in hog marketing, a 9 per cent increase for cattle with a corresponding increase in the production of meat products, called for a 6 per cent increase in hog meat production, and these are indications that 1943 production may not be far from the mark.

There has been a substantial increase in creamery butter production and higher consumption of milk in the fluid state.

Production of cheese has not been maintained at the 1943 level, but the market has been able to contract for 150 million pounds although it has been found, possibly to partially compensate for the deficiency by exports of butter to the United Kingdom.

Canada has the protection of an English Channel.

It was correspondingly easy to invade. But when the invaders failed to smash the Russian army at the first onset, the inevitable happened.

The war of movement became a war of position—with the biggest battalions on the Russian side of the line. The then turned into a "big push" like that on the Western Front in the first great war. The Russians won because it had the weight of numbers. And this advantage the Russian general staff is showing itself capable of exploiting to the full.

Say Juveniles Are Responsible Store Break-In

Juveniles are thought to be responsible for a break-in and robbery at Field's Drug Store, 1239 Port Rd., on Sunday evening.

There were $63 in bills and change taken from the till but the three youths dropped a bag containing $100 in 10¢ and 25¢ bills, worth $25, after the proprietor, Dick Holland had flushed the bandit from a flashlight when they fled the rear of the store toward 177 Avenue at 9:45 p.m.

Entry was made to the store through a coal chute, which was not locked.

Detective H. Nelson investigated. He reported that the youths were 16, 17, or 18 inches tall and one was wearing a cap and wind-breaker.

ARMED TWO

Police arrested two 16-year-old boys over the weekend for theft of a wallet from the trouser pockets of Frans Lepord, 1096 106 Street.

The wallet, containing $8.11 and five street car tickets, was taken from the victim's trouser as they hung in the wash room of a city packing plant. —

Issue Warrant Arrest of Witness

Retired to give evidence in a divorce action unless paid $25 may result in plenty of trouble for Mike Strahod, Edmonton resident.

During the hearing of a divorce action Leo Peckarsky, Edmonton barrister, informed the court that Strahod, a retired engineer, was a witness and refused to testify unless paid $25. The usual conduct money had been paid.

Mr. Peckarsky said that he had declined to pay any amount in excess of the witness fee.

The庭 witness said that the witness' name be called, and when he failed to answer he issued a bench warrant for his appearance on an adjourned date. Justice G. R. O'Connor said that he had declined to pay any amount in excess of the witness fee.

In the meantime evidence was presented in the case in which Peckarsky, 50, a retired engineer from his wife, Annie Nozak. The parties were married at Skaro on September 10, 1925. The case was adjourned until Strahod's hearing in court.

Decrees of divorce were granted to Peckarsky, D. H. from Inga A. Hoover, and to Gafetza Alexandruk from William Alexzandruk.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Kind, Unselfish Life Reward in Mourning

Hen-Pecking Wives, Pinch-Penny Husbands, Who Think of No Other Welfare But Own, Leave

No Regrets When End Comes

The other day a woman said to me, "I'm sorry, but when I die people won't say 'what a blessing' and feel like offering my family and friends congratulations instead of condolences." The remark was intended as a wisecrack, but it must have given a jolt to all who heard it. It is a jolt to me, for if those about whom it would be glad instead of sorry when they die.

For such is human vanity that none of us can bear the thought that no one will mourn us when we are gone. And that is a blessing, and that no tear will be shed above our graves. But few of us have the right to be mourned. If "Will anyone be glad when I am dead?" have I stood between anyone and heaven? Have I been a burden for others? Have I given no one reason to remember me with love and tenderness?

TYRANT'S DEATH
The honest ones of us are satisfied with our own virtues and expect to have handson monuments erected over us by our bereaved relatives when we are laid to rest. But the honest ones have questions in the negative, if we were honest? Take married couples, for instance. If a man has married for 25 or 30 years, and Mr. X has considered himself a model husband because he has been able to afford the household bills. But in all of that time he has been a petty tyrant, with his power, his wife has vented his temper, and his nerves on her. He has never given her a compliment, or given her a dollar that she could spend as she pleased. And when he dies no one will be surprised that he will be mourned.

What To Do

So much is written about the conduct of the bride and groom at weddings, but very little is ever said of how the guests should be dressed.

Guests should arrive on time, should be quiet and serious in attitude, and should leave the church as soon as the ceremony is over. If the couple are going to receive friends in the vestry, the guests should leave after the ceremony, the guests should proceed slowly and wait their turn to be received.

Wedding guests should remember never to throw rice or confetti inside the church, but if they must throw rice, it should be done outside the doors of the church.

The bride's car is not in good taste, and such attempts at humor are out of place at a wedding.

Kind, Unselfish Life Reward in Mourning
Hen-Pecking Wives, Pinch-Penny Husbands, Who Think of No Other Welfare But Own, Leave

No Regrets When End Comes

Or maybe it's Father who holds on to his old textbook, and his old desk, and will lose it. I have known more than one rich man who was so stingy he refused to let his children go to school or help them get a start in life, or even provide them with the necessities of life so that they could save their lives. You can't blame them if they look forward to the rewards of heaven.

And think of all the disagreeable people with whom so many have lived. The selfish, the bosses, the people who never mind an opportunity to say something that would be better left unsaid. They are missed, as they used to sing to the old Gilbert and Sullivan operas, "They are, they are, they are, it will be a pleasant miss."

The moral of all of this is: If we want to be mourned when we are dead, we must so conduct ourselves that we are loved while we are alive.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mothers are invariably sure their practices are unique, when in reality they are not.

For instance, some young Sandra won't eat eggs. She hates them, and she won't eat them when they are forced on her. But where is the mother who is not afraid to eat eggs? And she has never known that his soul was his own. She has supervised his eating, and she has never told him that he should spend as he pleased. And when he does no one need be surprised that he will be a success.

For example, the mother who is a champion nager and who has never known that she could not be a good cook.

Or the mother who is a good cook, and who has never known that she could not be a good nager.

And there are the Y.s. Mrs. Y. is a noble, Christian lady, but she is a champion nager and who has never known that she could not be a good cook.

Or the mother who is a good cook, and who has never known that she could not be a good nager.
